17. ABSTRACT (MAX. 250 WORDS)

Lesson 4 begins the introduction of questions and answers. The helper begins by asking a question. The student responds by reading the sentence introduced in the last lesson.. Next, the questions are read by the student. Punctuation is introduced--question marks denoting questions and periods indicating answers. Then the student is asked to read a question and choose from two answers. Questions become more complex with the introduction of "or." "Thin" is introduced without a picture cue. It is discovered from the association with its opposite. Discovery of individual letters is begun and the student realizes that the same letter is used in different words.
